

Barclays Roll Yield Commodities Fund

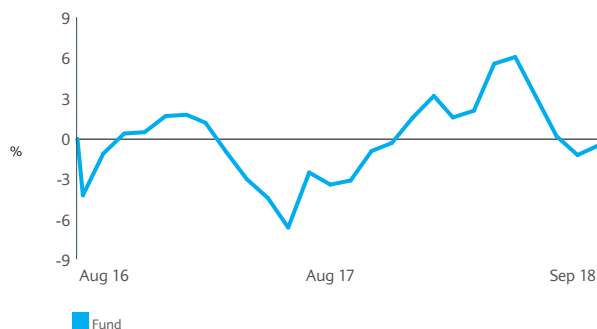

About the Fund

The Fund's objective is to generate returns linked to the performance of the Barclays Roll Yield Total Return Index (the Index).

Fund Features

- The index is comprised of contracts (traded on an exchange) for the future purchase and sale of commodities in the energy, base metals, precious metals, agriculture and livestock sectors (known as "commodity futures")
- These commodity futures have a limited life and expire on pre-determined dates
- The index uses a rules-based approach to adjust its investments in commodity futures on a monthly basis
- The index aims to profit from any returns generated by the buying and holding of commodity futures, selling them before they expire and then buying new similar commodity futures with a later expiry date (a process known as "rolling" the commodity futures). The returns generated by rolling the commodity futures are known as "roll yield."
- The fund will invest in financial contracts with Barclays Bank PLC known as derivatives to obtain a return linked to the index
- Any income from the fund will be reinvested and the fund will not pay out any dividends

Performance

Past performance of the fund, underlying funds and managers is not necessarily indicative of its future or likely performance.

Your investment should be regarded as medium to long term.

The performance of the fund shown takes into account the effect of annual management fees, transaction costs and any applicable taxes with net income re-invested, but not the effect of any initial charges that may be applicable. The effect of initial charges means that investors would have got back slightly less than shown. The performance of the market index (where shown) does not include the effect of any fees or charges.

Commentary

- Commodities saw mixed performance over the month. Energy, livestock and industrial metals added value while grains, precious metals and softs lost ground over the period
- Oil prices rose to the highest level since November 2014 amid continued uncertainty over how the market would respond to supply constraints from Donald Trump's sanctions on Iran. Brent crude, the international benchmark, closed up 7.3% to almost $83 a barrel
- Gold fell to $1196.20/oz as the dollar strengthened following the third interest rate rise from the Federal Reserve this year. Gold has fallen 10% over the past six months due to the stronger dollar and a rise in US interest rates
- In industrial metals, copper gained 5.2% as trade war fears eased and policymakers in Beijing flagged a fresh focus on infrastructure investment. The metal remains 16% lower year-to-date
- Against this backdrop, the portfolio added value over the month

Risk Factors

Value of Investments

The value of investments and the income you receive from them can fall as well as rise.

Long Term Investments

Stock market investments should be regarded as long term investments.

Returns are not guaranteed

What you receive when you sell your investment is not guaranteed, it depends on how your investments perform.

Taxation and tax relief

Levels of taxation and tax relief are subject to change.

Inflation

Inflation will reduce the real value of your investments in future.

Volatility

Investments in the fund tend to be volatile and investors should expect an above-average price increase or decrease.

Offshore

You are not normally entitled to compensation through the UK Financial Services Compensation Scheme for offshore funds.

Derivative Exposure

The fund invests in derivatives as part of its investment strategy, over and above their use for Efficient Portfolio Management (EPM). Investors should be aware that the use of these instruments can, under certain circumstances, increase the volatility and risk profile of the Fund. The fund may also be exposed to the risk that the company issuing the derivative may not honour their obligations which in turn could lead to losses arising.
