Commentary - Parus Finance - February 2025 ⁽⁹⁾

The performance of the InRIS Parus Fund was +3.07% in February. The Fund was at +5.42% YTD, +9.09% for 1 year, +51.95% for 5 years.

The MSCI World closed down -0.8% for February with US equities trading down whilst Europe and China equities posted strong positive performance. In the US some macro data points disappointed with CPI coming in higher than expected, PMI coming in lower than expected with contracting services, consumer sentiment dropping from January and tariff newsflow creating uncertainty. For Parus, both the long and short book produced positive alpha. On the long side, China related names contributed most significantly, with BYD announcing advanced assisted driving features across a range of models, and Alibaba posting strong results and a commitment to their AI strategy which was taken positively alongside recent acknowledgment of the high performance of their LLM. In the short book, real estate names contributed significantly as higher interest rates and affordability remain a key issue.

At the end of February, the net exposure of the Fund was 76.2% of the NAV, with a long exposure of 94.5% and a short exposure of 18.2%. The gross exposure was 112.7% of the NAV.
