Quarterly comment

The U.S. equity market ended the year on a strong note, with the S&P 500 Index rising 2.41% during the quarter. The U.S.economy continued to demonstrate resilience, with real GDP growing at an annualized rate of 3.1%. Corporate earnings also showed strength, as S&P 500 companies reported 5.8% earnings growth, marking the fifth consecutive quarter of positive results.The ABN AMRO Funds US Equities Mandate 7 underperformed the MSCI USA Index for the period. Security selection in Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology detracted from relative performance while security selection in Materials and Financials contributed.There were no new purchases or sales completed during the quarter.Markets in 2024 were captivated by a singular theme: artificial intelligence. In our investment team’s decades of experience, we have observed narrow markets driven by a singular narrative. While we own several high-quality technology companies, some have not participated in the AI-driven rally and therefore underperformed. It is not uncommon for our long-term approach (focused on fundamentals and unfolding catalysts measured in years, not quarters) to underperform when the broad focus is on one dominant theme. Just as we remain grounded during years of outperformance, we stay disciplined and patient during inevitable periods of underperformance. Our history shows that over longer horizons—e.g., three- and five-year periods—our approach has a greater potential to deliver outperformance.
