INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The fund seeks to earn superior risk-adjusted returns through disciplined stock selection across the world's emerging markets. We engage in fundamental, bottom-up research to identify companies that have solid business models, strong cash-flow generation potential and sound corporate governance, and are trading at attractive valuations. The fund invests primarily in Asia, Latin America, Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY<sup>1</sup>

Emerging markets equities posted a marginal gain in February, but outperformed those in developed markets. China was the best-performing EM country due to continued optimism about its AI capabilities, despite the announcement of additional tariffs from the Trump administration. Meanwhile, India was the worst-performing large market due to persistent selling from foreign institutional investors, muted earnings and the tariff uncertainty. Emerging markets currencies strengthened against the dollar, which declined relative to other developed markets currencies. Lastly, while emerging markets equity funds experienced net outflows in February, the pace of these outflows slowed meaningfully from January.

The Fund outperformed the MSCI EM Index Net benchmark in February. By country, our overweight exposure to China and our underweight allocations to India and Taiwan positively impacted our relative results, as did our stock selection in Indonesia. Conversely, our selection in Korea and South Africa detracted, as did our overweight exposure to Indonesia. At the sector level, our stock selection among consumer discretionary drove our relative performance, along with our overweight exposure to consumer discretionary and our underweight allocation to information technology. Meanwhile, while our selection among information technology had a negative effect, as did our overweight in materials and our underweight in communication services. The portfolio is overweight materials, consumer staples and consumer discretionary, while underweight information technology and financials. By country, our largest overweight's are China and South Africa, and our largest underweights are Taiwan and India.
