Quarterly comment

The ABN AMRO Parnassus U.S. ESG Equities Fund underperformed the MSCI USA Index during the fourth quarter. Stock selection was the primary driver of underperformance, while sector allocation slightly detracted as well. Stock selection had a negative impact in Financials but a positive effect in Information Technology. Within sector allocation, an overweight in the Materials sector detracted the most, while an underweight in the Health Care sector contributed. Within stock selection, the three greatest contributors were Salesforce, Amazon and Eli Lilly. The three largest detractors were Realty Income, Ball and Cigna Group. During the quarter, we sold our positions in Sysco, CME Group and Mondelez International and added new positions in Ferguson Enterprises, Eli Lilly, Workday, KLA and Vertex Pharmaceuticals. The strategy exited the quarter most overweight in Materials followed by Industrials. The largest underweights were Energy (no exposure) and Communication Services. As we look into the year ahead, we expect the following factors to be notable drivers of investment returns: (1) the path and continuation of frontier AI model scaling, which expands the capabilities and complexity of AI applications; (2) greater AI usage and workflow integration across consumer and enterprise businesses; (3) fiscal policy moves (e.g., tariffs, immigration) by the new administration and Congress and the combined impact on inflation, economic growth and interest rates; and (4) international markets experiencing growth recoveries (e.g., China, Europe, South America). We remain focused on executing our investment process and maintaining exposure to increasingly relevant, competitively advantaged businesses at attractive valuations. We continue to see attractive opportunities across the Materials and Financials sectors while opportunistically taking advantage of volatility in Information Technology in our pursuit of strong long-term returns.
