Portfolio Manager Commentary

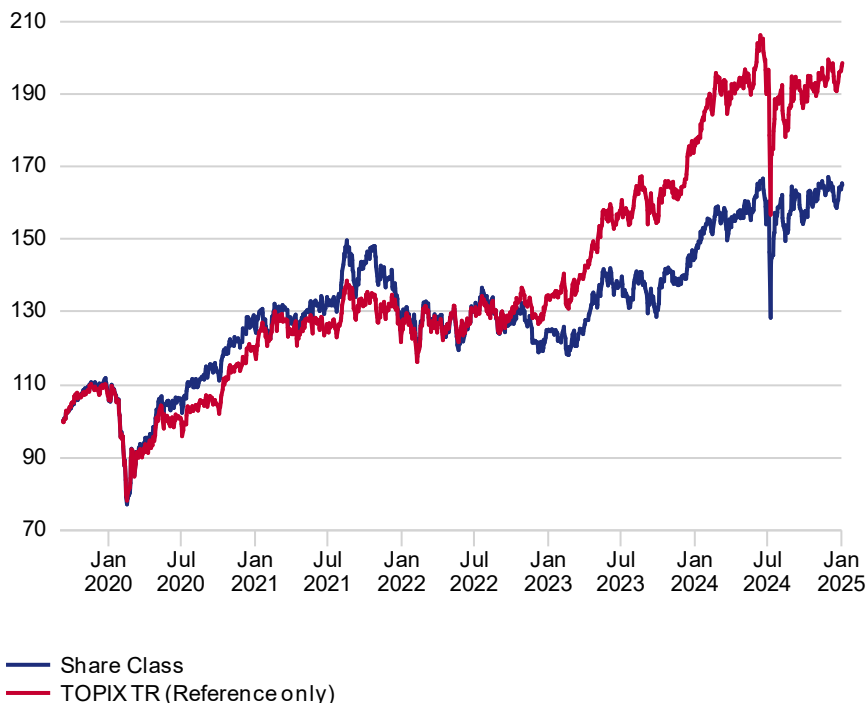

Performance Overview

Ryohin Keikaku Co., Ltd., a clothing, household goods, and food products developer, rose sharply on upward revision of full-year forecasts due to strong sales in Japan and China. However, Fuji Electric Co., Ltd. (heavy electrical machinery manufacturer) fell owing to a decline in semiconductor sales caused by lower EV sales by European automakers.

Market Outlook and Investment Strategy

Uncertainty over Trump's policy management may continue to destabilize the market. However, the underlying Japanese and US economies are expected to remain strong for the time being, and we expect moderate economic growth to continue in Japan, with wage increases etc. Also, in terms of stock supply and demand, share buybacks will continue to support the stock market. Therefore, the market is expected to gradually trend upwards. Specifically, we aim to closely monitor the progress of solutions for environmental and social issues, and increase our holdings of stocks that show promising progress in addressing these issues. The continuing population outflow is a major problem in Japan's regional areas, but in some areas the demand for funds is beginning to increase on the back of the attraction of semiconductor-related companies, investment demand as a response to the increase in inbound travel, and demand for funds to deal with inflation. We will continue to focus on beneficiaries in this field.
